I hope we win a lot more than the coin toss 2nite.

If I hit it right, it's a slice. If I hit it left, it's a hook. If I hit it straight, it's a miracle.

our defense needs to shore it up. that is the second time that bradley has tried to do too much. he needs to relax. we are still looking pretty good. just need to sustain some drives and wear them down.

Well, we shouldn't really make any errors. Some might be acceptable, but certainly nothing big. Hope we don't tighten on special teams or anywhere else for that matter.

Actually, this game is reminding me a lot of the Texas A&M game offensively.

AD might only get three yards per carry, but just the fact that we continue to pound him over and over opens up the passing game.

You're right Czar. We are only down 7. Disappointing yes, we are smarter and have played much better than we have shown so far. Not that I like to give them credit, but SC is playing much looser than we are right now.

Take a deep breath you guys. You've got tons of time. Just need to make some adjustments and stop turning the ball over. 7 of their points were gift wrapped.

Okla needs to work the slot so peterson can have some room. The USC LB's are just bum rushing the line. They need to fear the slip pass that beats them backdoor.

Chalk 7 USC points up to complete stupidity (the punt miscue)

14-7 mentally. Stay in it sooners.

were arent playing very well at all. White is just throwing balls away. I cant honestly remember him ever playing this poorly. Our receivers cant run a route without falling. Our linebackers cant stop L White, our secondary cant cover deep, our o-line is getting owned, we are really stinking in alot of areas here. If we somehow overcome all of this to win this game it will be the greatest comeback in history.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

About time Chuck started calling those mid range crossing routes.

"I think as a team we're just fed up with the BCS stuff," Jones said. "We just want to go out and play as hard as we can and get the victories as best as we can."

Ok deep breath.

14 USC points were gifted.

Two incredibly short drives handed to them.

14-10 would be more realistic, but that is not the situation.

28-17 28-10 28-13. I'll take any of those at half, 28-17 is the dream.

We are going to have a tough time ever getting into a national championship game again. This looks like it could be two years in a row of people claiming that we don't belong and then us proving them right.

OU starts on their own 26
 1st 10
 Rush for 5 yds by AD
 2nd 5
 Pass 4 yds to AD
 3rd 1
 Fumble. USC recovers.
 That's 4 turnovers.

I'll answer my own question.

Who cares about the details. Change the shoes pronto.

Equal shoes means equal scoring in the 2nd half.

So must utilize the giant sooner heart.

Oh crap, another 1st down.

This is like USC 75% on third down conv.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

If this was a true national championship game, USC wouldn't be trying to run up the score at this point. As it is, with two other undefeated teams vying for the AP National Championship, who else out there sees this as a total statement game....USC wants to leave no question. And blowing out the NUMBER TWO team in the country will go a long way towards proving that point. Can you say 70 points? 77? 84?

This is gonna be rough, I'm afraid...

an early 2nd half td makes it a 3 score game.

Tough D on the next series and you have the ball and a chance to make it a 14 point game after a TD.

There is hope.

if USC is only up 14 with 3 minutes left in the third then it is on.

Sooners must play defense, any way possible. That was just an amazingly feeble display of defense.

USC cannot play another half like that.

Of course they may only need to kick a FG.

Let me go cry quietly. I'll be back.

"No wonder Texas loses to Oklahoma. When we went to Oklahoma, those kids were fired up to see us. They were ready to work out. They did every drill we asked them to do and asked if we wanted more. That's the kind of attitude you expect to see when a kid's future as an NFL player's at stake. You expect them to be excited and cooperative. You'd think those other Texas players would have followed Roy Williams' lead." Anonymous NFL Scout

OK guys & gals...I'm gonna rant...Negspek me, ban me, I don't care. I now this ain't the best time but...

1) Starting to lose faith in Stoops in the big game?

Go to hell! Dammit, I'm a Sooner, period. Born, raised, and live in Norman. Stoops has done more for this program in 6 years than any other coach except Switzer and Wilkinson. Want someone else? HmMMM?! I'm calling bandwagon on all you even thinking that!

2) USC is taking advantage of our mistakes. We're not playing good. Yes, it is possible SUC is better than us this year. I'm not happy, but at least we made this far.

3) SUC scored on an incomplete pass.

4) I'm beginning to see folks showing some true colors. I know I went over this but if you want to be a Sooner through the good times, be a Sooner through the bad. We are making mistakes. SUC is capitalizing on them. Belittling 18-23 year old kids just so you can buy a T-shirt that says "we're #1" is shameful. I don't believe any of us ran a single bleacher this season...the best any one did was walk to their seat.

There, I'm done, for now. Adjustments will be made during half time. We might not win the game, but it will be better.

OK guys & gals...I'm gonna rant...Negspek me, ban me, I don't care. I now this ain't the best time but...

1) Starting to lose faith in Stoops in the big game?

Go to hell! Dammit, I'm a Sooner, period. Born, raised, and live in Norman. Stoops has done more for this program in 6 years than any other coach except Switzer and Wilkinson. Want someone else? Hmmmm?! I'm calling bandwagon on all you even thinking that!

2) USC is taking advantage of our mistakes. We're not playing good. Yes, it is possible SUC is better than us this year. I'm not happy, but at least we made this far.

3) SUC scored on an incomplete pass.

4) I'm beginning to see folks showing some true colors. I know I went over this but if you want to be a Sooner through the good times, be a Sooner through the bad. We are making mistakes. SUC is capitalizing on them. Belittling 18-23 year old kids just so you can buy a T-shirt that says "we're #1" is shameful. I don't believe any of us ran a single bleacher this season...the best any one did was walk to their seat.

There, I'm done, for now. Adjustments will be made during half time. We might not win the game, but it will be better.

Ok....OU 45 - USC 38....Does the math work on this one?

P.S. I would rather watch the schools band than these stupid half time shows.

I'll say this about the first half...USC couldn't play any better than that....and we couldn't play any worse.

Ugh....simpson on now.....I've never been more glad for the sound problems they're having at the game...

I dont think anyone would suggest to dump Stoops. He has done more than anybody could expect and returned us to were we belong and will always be part of OU history wether he coaches 1 more year or 15 more years. I just said I have lost confidence in his big game ability. There was a time when we were almost a shoe in for win in a big game but now not so.....

tuba, we aren't as talented as teams like USC or texas but we compensate with confidence and discipline. every game where we have either had early breakdowns by our defense or early turnovers we've folded until a great player made a play. unfortunately this team doesn't have a TGRW to pull our keisters out of the fire. they have peterson and white, both of whom are really frustrated. we can still make this game competitive but unless USC gift wraps us some points (unlikely) we aren't going to win. we could have won if bradley's miscue was the only mistake, but it was the first of many.

We aren't this bad, and USC isn't this good, but the score is what it is. And it is nothing less than totally humiliating for us, right out in front of God and everybody. I'm still hoping for the greatest comeback in OU history, but we've got to get the wheels back on the wagon soon. PS - someday somebody's going to have to explain "pifwafwi" to me.

1. I'm not losing faith in Stoops in a big game, but I'm concerned with the coaches under him. We are getting burned on a lot of the same issues that have burned us all this year, I would think that after 11 games, they could have fixed some of this.
2. That's what got me pissed off. Our boys aren't playing their best. I have a saying with my kid "Did you train your best? Did you do your best? Then don't worry about it if you did all you could" I just don't see thier best right now.
3. Yep, and we gave them a few other free touchdowns. 1 you can call on the refs, but 2 you can call against us.
4. The game is still on. We are still cheering for the Sooners. My neighbors just stopped by to rub it in a little, but they are still pulling for the Big 12. I can be critical of items that should have been fixed by now and still pull for my team.

For the past 13 years, I've been down here in Houston amongst all the Aggies and Horns. I've stood up for my team during all those years even in the 90s when we were bad. If you call showing "your true colors" by being ticked off by not seeing our team's best (2 times in a row), then you can say I'm a bandwagonner.

did you hear his comments? OU is beating themselves b/c of 3 turnovers and 2 bombs...

Dude? are you aware that the reason you had 2 of those turnovers is because your QB was rushed so hard he had to dump the ball? Are you aware the other turnover was because clearly your boys haven't been coached well enough to know better than picking up a loose ball on a punt at your own 3 yard line - where the hell does he think he's going to go with it?

Dude? are you aware that everyone outside of the USC coaching staff knew your secondary was the weak spot? Seriously, you are down by 28 points because you're getting smoked.

Come on Stoops, join the in-crowd.

I just never thought we wouldn't show up. It never occurred to me. Not only the players, but the coaching staff isn't even in the state of Florida either. I honestly did not think we could play this bad. I chalked the Big 12 champ game last year up to an injured JW. But we've got everyone healthy tonight. Except there doesn't appear to be a game plan and none of our players can stay on their feet long enough to execute it anyway. There's no toughness, either mental or physical, and there's no heart. That's something I never thought I'd say about a Stoops coached team.

BTW This halftime show is the worst display of crap I've ever seen.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

what's frustrating, i think, to so many of us is that we're losing AND getting beat in every way possible. Often times we are able at least in our minds to pick out someone/thing that is single-handedly getting us beat. It's been M. Stoops leaving, it's been E. Bassey, last year some said it was The Trophy, often it's Chuck Long.

Today it's everyone in white, both on offense and defense. It's the coaching staff for their play calls and failure (it would appear) to get these guys' minds ready. And last but certainly not least it's USC, who is making the throws, the catches, the 3rd and long conversions, the better play calls, and the momentum theirs.

Here's hoping for a better second half. But what I fear is that now, with the lead, USC will be able to run much more, making t.o. less likely and eating the clock we need so badly.

Our secondary is killing us. Correct me if I'm wrong, but isn't that where we got killed last year by K-State and LSU last season? What's our problem there. Lack of quality players? Is our defensive scheme suspect to attack in the secondary?

Oh -- and Ashley Simpson may have been worse on stage than we have been. It's a tight race, but man -- she looked snanky and sounded like crap.

We'll be able to tell everything we need to know from this drive right here. If we can sustain a solid drive and get points, and then follow it up with a three and out or a short USC possession, then there's a chance. If we turn it over or go three and out ourselves, it's over...

One problem is that Leinart is dead-on accurate. I sum this disaster up by saying USC saved their best for last and we saved our worst. I'm totally stunned, just shocked beyond belief that we can be getting hammered like this. I never imagined such a catastrophe. Never. Ever. This is even worse than the '78 OB vs Arkansas. I sure hope XTR's baby is having a better time than the rest of us.

In my opinion he was in the motion of throwing (arm going forward), but was pulling it down with the intention of NOT throwing when it was Jared loose. Don't think that judgement call is in the rule book however.

I'd like to echo that sentiment, no matter the outcome, this season was a great one, and the seniors have left a lasting memory and impression here at OU, something that a younger OU fan like myself can really appreciate. To all the seniors, thank you, for a great season, and being Sooner players in general. Way to show everyone how we do things in Oklahoma, with class, respect, and hard work. JW gets respek from me for playing his heart out. USC's DBs are playing exceptionally well and he is getting, I think, marginal help from play calls. It's hard when you're a qb facing 2nd and 10 with DB playing as well as USC's are.

OU ball on the 32
1st 10
Rush for 6 yds by AD
2nd 4
Rush for 7 yds
1st 10. Well the running game is going now.
Pass Incomplete
2nd 10
Pass for 1 yd to Brandon Jones
3rd 8
Pass Complete to Will Peoples for 21. Penalty. Holding - OU. Too bad.
3rd 18.
Sacked for - 5 yds
4th 23

again, like i said in another thread about The Trophy's friend Brian Stewart--remember that this hurts but life goes on. Sooner football is huge, but B. Stewart and countless other sooners are fighting for their lives. XingTheRubicon is likely having his daughter this evening. Yes, the sun comes up tomorrow as Cam said. Let me preface this by saying that I am in no way blaming the refs for our suckage.

But 2 BLATANT missed PI calls, plus that non-TD in the endzone, and a host of others too innumerable to mention. NCAA officiating committee has got to look at this one. Of course, they ARE an SEC crew. Gee, wonder if that has anything to do with it????

P.S. Well let's make sure we add in how we have NO pass rush tonight. And NO offensive playbook. We don't even look like us. We look like Tulsa or somebody.

Mama said there'd be nights like this.

Yes, you can question our play calling, accuse our coaches of being overrated, etc. etc.

Fact is, USC is THIS good and there's not one thing anyone can do about it right now. And Sooners turning against other Sooners isn't going to help.

Okay...seriously. This hurts ALL of us. But that is no reason to...

- A. Turn against each other
- B. Turn on our own team
- C. Turn on our coaches

We can lose with as much class as we've been winning with. Guys, if you are so pissed off that you're going to take it out on a fellow Sooner/Player/Coach, then get off. Take a couple of days and cool off.

This is not the time to rip each other because of the pain we're feeling. We're Sooners. We're better than that.

we suck again! oh well, at least we're getting good at losing in a big-time public way. prepare the golden path for the condoms to be the nations "fagship" in football for the next 20 years.

everyone in southern cali does speed and meth., especially puff daddy and the elf.

too bad taking the high road never pays. maybe stoops should train our players to do flips in the end zone and dance around and grab each others ___ for the cameras.... oh wait, keep on a walkin' down that road, Tom Joad... this will be the first game this year I didn't finish watching.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

I would hope that we would just run the clock out now. Of course, USC would probably keep trying to score until the last second. So I don't know... 🤔

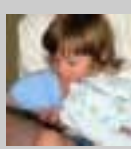

USC is good, yes. But not 35 points better than us good. I never figured our coaching staff to let the players down like this. And I never figured our players to roll over like this. Got no explanation. It's the '78 Orange Bowl all over again (the OU v. Arkansas one).

I feel sorry for Jason, and all the Sooners that traveled to the game to support our Sooners.

But for Jason to go down in his 2nd BCS championship, its just not right. He deserves so much better than this for what he has done.

Gotta give some credit to SC's coaches. Their players were more ready than ours, and they're outclassing Stoops & Co. regardless of all the mental f-ups.

This sucks

I know that jkm and others disagree with me, but I stand by my opinion that our players have no heart in this game. At this point I'd say they have quit. Something else I never thought I'd say about a Stoops coached team. We have quit.

We all are and we all do and that's why we're all so pissed off right now. We could probably accept losing a close, hard fought (dare I say Game of the Century?) game or hell, we might even be able to accept a game where we were never quite in it but hung tough (see last year's Sugar Bowl) but I'm finding it damn hard to take what we put out there tonight. I love the Sooners, I always will....I love the players, I always will, but this was a flat out embarassment. We did nothing right. We couldn't stop them and we just gave them the ball every chance that we got. Nobody is going to be happy about that. To have this occur in 2 out of the last 4 championship games is inexcusable....there is something wrong. It's not like we're Tulsa taking on the big boys, we ARE the big boys...we SHOULD be able to go toe to toe. We didn't.

That's why a lot of us are so mad right now.....or sick. I haven't felt this bad after a game in a long, long, long time.

If Pete Carroll had any class, he'd put the subs in and try to run out the clock and take his trophy home. But he's out there with his starters on both sides of the ball, going for it on fourth down, and throwing bombs with his Heisman winning QB. I guess he has no class.

Dude its just now the 4th. He will probably sub after one more TD. I know Stoops would leave everyone in and probably on sub to put seniors in but he wouldnt be throwing bombs he would just try to drive down the field.

on the surface, it would appear that wholesale coaching changes need to be made. But the team has not been trying for 2 and a half quarters.

What this game does:

Effects Recruiting big time
Gives Texas a sense of "momentum" on us
Gives a blue print on how to attack our D
Makes OU a joke nationally

And keeps Bob Stoops from bolting to another college, and maybe the NFL for a long time IMO.

This is my main concern. I thought once perkins got back it would seal some of the holes in the secondary, but it didn't. I can't help but feel that it has something to do with Venables (sp?). The defense breakdown started last year in the Big 12 Championship game, broadened in the LSU game. If he's the one in charge of the defense then he really needs to be looked at. Not saying fire him, but maybe move him to another position and possibly bring in a new head defensive coach.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

Let's see. I was carried in my mother's arms to my first OU game when Bud was still the coach. In all those years there were some whippings and some heart-breakers. The '71 Game of the Century hurt, but it really was a heroic effort in a great game. Until tonight, the worst disappointment was the 78 OB. Last year was bad, but we gave it a shot. Tonight's loss is at the top of the list of bad, bad Sooner losses in my lifetime. It's a merciless beating in a big game, but worse is the disappointment factor. MNC #8 was within sight and we flat collapsed. This was our year to "finish" and atone for last year's crash & burn. Instead we have been undressed and debased in front of our enemies, our friends, those who have treid to be or friends, and the whole nation of football fans. The humiliation is unfathomable, the stuff of legend. We are a national joke - "Choke-lahoma." In short, given the magnitude and the circumstances, this is the worst Sooner loss in my lifetime. This one will hurt - and hurt badly - for a long, long, long time.
On the other hand, it's just a game. heh <pathetic>
Good luck at the Doc's SoonerBob. I hope to hear something good from XTR.

I agree 100%. This is going to hurt OU BAD!!!

Last year could be played of as some fluke. Like the losses to the aggots. We could blame those on player injuries, not needed to win the game, etc.

What this does is show that with a healthy, talented and senior laden team, we will still suck it up

I dunno, 11 and 12+ win seasons are awesome. I love going to championships, but I can't see it going after this has happened.

Aw hell, you should have been around for the Arkansas game. Losing badly to a team that suspended three starters the week of the game. Now that was really depressing.

Tonight's loss is at the top of the list of bad, bad Sooner losses in my lifetime. It's a merciless beating in a big game, but worse is the disappointment factor. MNC #8 was within sight and we flat collapsed. This was our year to "finish" and atone for last year's crash & burn. Instead we have been undressed and debased in front of our enemies, our friends, those who have treid to be or friends, and the whole nation of football fans. The humiliation is unfathomable, the stuff of legend. We are a national joke - "Choke-lahoma." In short, given the magnitude and the circumstances, this is the worst Sooner loss in my lifetime. This one will hurt - and hurt badly - for a long, long, long time. On the other hand, it's just a game. heh <pathetic> Good luck at the Doc's SoonerBob. I hope to hear something good from XTR.

Welcome to Florida vs. Nebraska...1996 Fiesta Bowl or Nebraska vs. Colorado...2001 regular season or Texas A&M vs. OU...2003 regular season or a buncha others...you get my drift.

Bad losses happen to everyone now, and they suck...but true champions are the ones who adjust to this kind of humiliation, learn from it and move on. The big question is "What's Next"?

I was hoping I wasnt the only one to feel that way. I'd also like to take the time to say (although possibly erroneously) that didn't The King only win 3 out of 6 when playing for the championship? Someone had to lose, and we got the short stick. We're the Sooners. There's always next year (barring another John Blake.....)

That's why I put the little "?" there. 😊

Yep, we have a lot of people leaving, but we still have some great QBs coming up. Peterson will be here another year. I never expect the top ranking, so it'll be fun, but I don't think I can stand another year of OU bashing from the press. 🙄

Well, he looked very stoic, very quiet.

Was asked if he thought that USC's offense did anything special, etc. He said something like, "well, when you're in a safe coverage and you let the guys get behind you, i don't know what to do about that. i guess we could like up 25 yards off the line".

Also he commented on the turnovers. Surprisingly, didn't during this interview give USC much credit.

But conference is on ESPNNews and he opened by complimenting USC.

Re: Official National Championship Game Thread: OU vs USC

I'm not ready to give up on them (and him) yet.

Also he commented on the turnovers. Surprisingly, didn't during this interview give USC much credit.

But conference is on ESPNNews and he opened by complimenting USC.

Well really, Leinart looked like he could have dropped the ball into a shot glass from 60 yards, And his receivers made some great catches, sometimes in good coverage.

So was I, so was I.

I was 11 yrs old and I went crying to my room and proceeded to rip it to shreds. The bedspread, pillows, etc. My mom was so pissed at my dad for turning me into the OU monster that I am now.

But I must say, today tops it. I've never been more humiliated in my life. They didn't even acted like they cared. I know they are kids. I know they care, but man, I didn't see anyone shaking their heads, or getting fired up on the sidelines, or even trying to offer some suggestions to the coaches. I figure heck, if the coaches can't figure out how to stop them, maybe some of the players might have had some ideas.

And if one person says to me, it's only a game, I'll Scream.

And that is with all due respect to XTR and our soldiers fighting for our freedoms we enjoy.

Ya know, as a die hard fan (which we all are), I kind of pride ourselves on the fact that the team knows we are all around the country (and sometimes the world) cheering for them, sending all of our energy and Sooner Magic their way. Of course, it really is up to them on the field. But tonight, I felt so let down. Like we did our part, geez, why didn't they do theirs? I just don't get it.

Are we that bad? that mediocre? If that's the case, I would much rather someone send us to the Holiday Bowl or some other bowl where we could make a decent showing of ourselves and team instead of getting embarrassed and humiliated (2 yrs in a row now).

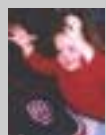

Geez, see what they've done now....they have me comparing them to Texas Tech.

What a sucky night

Boomer Sooner and I pray that next year is better.

I thought he did very good at both times the press talked to him. Stated what went wrong, stated he'd review the tapes, and also complimented USC on the game. He definately took the high ground.

I agree, the team needs to care when they are getting their asses handed to them.

I was 20, and that was the first and last time I got stinking drunk because I was mad about something. Tonight I'm just very very disappointed and embarrassed.
